Sample:

1. To improve the quality of education, universities should spend more money on salaries for university professors.

In recent years, more and more attention was paid to the quality of education. Some educators believe that spending more budgets on income for university professors will not lead to the improvement of quality of education. However, I hold the opposite opinion.

2. Your job has more effect on your happiness than your social life does.

In recent years, more and more attention was paid to the factors that affect people`s happiness. Some people believe that your job affects your happiness more. However, as far as I am concerned, social life plays a more significant role in our happiness.
